

RAL MILES reiterates his views r of a large standing army, and man Hull of the military commitof the U. S. House of Representatives agrees with him, and so do all the other imperialists. And they do so too, not only upon the ground that a large army is necessary to keep the newly conquered provinces, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Cuba and the Philippine Islands, quiet, but also, to enforce the observance of law and order in this country. Imperialism is not only an expensive, but a dangerous policy for any government to adopt, but especially, for one under which every man has the right to vote.

THE DANGER of another "insurrection" in Cuba is giving the administration no little trouble, and already arrangements are being made for sending more troops there, though upwards of twelve thousand are there already; and as there are not enough here to preserve order on the frontier and on the Indian reservations, it is possible that some of them now in the Philippines may have to be brought back for that purpose. Hostile provinces always have been hard to manage; but republican managers have been so intent upon putting money in their pockets, that they have had no time to study history.

SENATORS DEBOE and Lindsay of Kentucky, both republicans, though the latter still presumes to call himself a democrat, having good reason to believe that the election board of their State will, under the laws thereof, decide that Mr. Geobel has been elected governor, have asked President Mc-Kinley to prevent the execution of that decision, and say they have the assurance that he will do so by the military force of the country. There are various uses to which a large standing army can be put, and one of them is to set aside the result of legal elections.

UNDER one of the several bills to be introduced in Congress early in itcoming session by Northern republican members for the reduction of Southern representation, Virginia, which now has ten representatives, will be allowed only four. Why certainly! And if four, why not only one, or none? She got along with no congressional representation for several years after the war, and why shouldn't she do so now? And besides, with a large standing army to enforce Presidential orders, what need is there for Southern congressional representation?

SENATOR HILL, of New York, bas just announced that he will support any ticket that may be nominated and any platform that may be adopted by the next national democratic convention. That's the way to talk, and that's just the way Mr. Croker of Tammany, and the executive committee of the Maryland democrats, talk, and the way all other true democrats talk, and the so-called democrats who don't talk that way are not democrats at all, and evince monumental effrontery in calling them selves democrats.

A CLERK in one of the government departments at Washington, an old republican from Iowa, has been removed for having written a letter in which he expressed the idea that many of the soldiers in the Philippine war had been induced to enlist by lack of any thing else to do by which they could earn a living here, thereby speaking disrespectfully of the President. A man with a hundred thousand muskets at his command must not have his policy questioned.

A RISING is now threatened in Cubs. Well, the only strange thing about this is that a "rising" has not occurred there long ago. A large portion of the U.S. army that was in Cuba has been sent to the Philippines, and as the dread of that army has worn off and most of the money Mr. McKinley gave them has been spent, the Cubans have been re markably quiet during the past year. Life and property will not be likely to be safe there, outside of military camps, for a long time.

THE official report of the managers of the republican party in Ohio of their expenditures during the last campaign in that State, places the amount at over 91,000 dollars. [Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette,] Now that the Dewey rocket has been exploded, the great American people, as represented by that portion of them in this city, are "all torn up" on the question as to whether or not a professor of the Mormon religion, who has the same sort of certificate that all the other representatives-elect have, shall be allowed to take his seat in Congress when that body shall assemble next Monday. Among the Solons here, many who think they are thinking of this mo mentous question, have their clerks diligently engaged in examining authories on the subject, and some of them ay that while the man of many wives cannot, under the Constitution, be refused his seat, he will be subsequently expelled. Others say he will not be worn in, and that the first thing the House will do will be to declare his seat v cant. And ail, too, though nobody enies he was fairly and legally elected. The impression here is strengthening DeArmond, more correctly than any of his competitors, represents the real democratic feeling in favor of Bryan and the Chicago platform. All ne others supported both, but neither, so pronouncedly as he, and Mr. Rich ardson is said to be too conciliatory and Mr. Bankhead as not as firm now a supporter of Bryan and free silver as he might be.

Mr. Speaker Henderson said this afternoon the House would not be able to receive the President's message on Monday, and that the republican leaders have decided to request Mr. Mc-Kinley not to transmit it to Congress until Tuesday. Mr. Henderson added that this was necessary on account of the four or five hours that would be consumed in organizing the House. The time of the cabinet meeting today was consumed in the consideration of the President's fort coming message to Congress that is completed. The document is practically fluished and is now being set up in the government printing office. The paragraphs relating to the Philippines and the proposed scheme of civil government for Cuba bave been eft open for change, as the President may deem necessary until the message is sent in. Regarning the proposed change of government in Cuba and the protests that have been registered against the innovation, no agreement has been reached, but Secretary Root when asked about this subsequently anid "there is no intention of Cuba a civil government yet."

Discontent in Cuba.

Havena, Nov. 28.-Indications that the Cubans are determined to resist the appointment of a civil governor for Cuon are increasing rather than decreas ng, though there is a disposition in some quarters to minimize the hostile eeling, classing it with the grumblings minor American innovation which have been heard from time to time, but have proved of no significauce. The present grievance of the Cuban is a more serious affair. The rancorous feeling is not confined to a class or faction, but is shared by Cabans of all political parties. Important evidence of this was the beginning last night of a movement for the amalgamation of all the Cuban political clubs. The object of this amalga nation is to resist the alleged attack or Cuban independence. Every American in Havana believes that an outbreak gainst the Americans has been planned although as yet no overt act on the part! of the Cabans has been traceable by the Mackerel, small, per bbl. 15 00 authorities. The natives are known to have 10,000 rifles and the newspaper correspondents here, who have investigated the situation, concur in the beief that trouble of a serious nature is brewing although there is a disposition on the part of some of them to postpone which are calculated to injure his influence in this community and elsewhere. These mistakes I hasten to correct, and most re-spect ully ask of you to do the same in t.-day's asue of your paper. The first mistake referred to is this: after calling attention to the meeting which was hell and the modera-tor who presided, you go on to say that "the past r. Rev. J. H. Builer, was the first speaker. He made a statement of the financial condi-tion of the church, in which he showed that for about fifteen months the expenditures had exceeded the receipts, and that the church was in debt, and its obligations gradually but surely increasing at the rate of about thirty dollars a month. Now the pastor emphatically denies having made any such statement Again you report him as saying to the church that "two hundred and corty-one dollars and sixty centwas now use him for salary, while the church was in debt in many other ways."

This statement is also incorrect, and has not a word of truth in it, as every one that not a word of truth in it, as every one that was present at the meeting will testify. And then again you go on further to state that "Mr. Butler said the fault of this condition might rest with him and might not; it could have been superinduced by the members of the church. If the latter placed the responsibility on him and his resignation would bring about another regime he would dissolve his connection with the church." Now Mr. Butier said no such a thing, and your informant or reporter must have drawn largely on his imagination at the time he gave you this information, or clse such a statement would not have appeared in your paper.

Finally you say that he (i. e. Mr. Butler) further stated that should any movement be insugurated to decresse his salary he would resign; a step he would take anyway should the debts on the church remain. This statement is also whelly without any toundation in fact, and greatly grieves not only the pastor himself, but the members of his church also, many or whom are readers of your paper. And now in conclusion, Mr. Feitor, I ask only to be rested extractly property property also ported correctly and earnestly request also that in the future, whenever you wish to make any mention of the Baptist Church, its pastor or its own private business affairs in your columns, you will please see the pastor and get the facts before you proceed to put-lish them to the world. Respectfully, J. H. BUTLER, Pactor.

Alexandrie, Va., Nov. 28, 1899. [The report complained of by Rev. Mr.

Butler was furnished the Gazette by mem-bers of the church who were present at the meeting and was published with no intention of injuring any one.]
